Tow procedures

When a vehicle is towed by the SFPD we notify our TOW DESK immediately. Department of Parking and Traffic does the same. SFPD or DPT does not tow vehicles that are on private property. The owners of the property contract with a tow company to have the vehicles towed. When a tow company tows a vehicle from private property they have to report the tow to the TOW Desk with in so many hours, I believe it is four. This is a procedure to keep track of the vehicles towed so that they are not reported stolen. Stolen vehicles are often recovered on private property. They need to be recovered and inventoried for evidentiary reasons by SFPD. We have seen a rise in the complaints against Tow Companies. Vehicles are being towed and our TOW DESK is not being notified. In some cases the Tow Company is notifying the registered owners(how we do not know) and they respond directly to the Tow Company to pick up their car. They pay fees to the company and then drive the vehicle away. Because the vehicle was never brought to the attention of the SFPD it has not been recovered. As far as the officers know it is still a stolen vehicle. (DO NOT DRIVE) I can only speculate why these companies operate this way. If they tow a vehicle, call the tow desk, and find out it is stolen. We are notified and recover the vehicle. It is towed to our facility and I do not think the company gets paid. That is why they should notify the TOW DESK before they tow it off the property. We have had reports of the registered owners paying several hundred dollars for towing and storage, When they shouldn't have to.

Some time ago, I mentioned in an e-mail that three San Francisco police officers had been activated for military duty, and two of them had already been deployed to the Middle East. It is no coincidence that all three of these officers came from one assignment, Bayview Station. Today, following eleven months of deployment in both Iraq and Afghanistan, Officer George Ferraez returned home to San Francisco and reported for duty in the Bayview. He will be on vaction until the middle of Feb. We welcome Officer Ferraez back home, and thank him for his service to our country overseas.
